A P P L Y	In Jesus’ time children did not exactly hold a high place in society. They were expected to be seen more than heard. As children began to approach Jesus, the disciples, too, considered them a bother, a distraction Jesus didn’t really need. Surely, he must have more important things to concern himself with. Jesus saw things very differently, however. He loved and valued the unique gifts children possessed. Jesus called on the disciples (and each of us) to welcome and learn from the youngest in our midst for they have a lot to teach us. Consider an important life lesson or perspective you may have learned from a child?
P R A Y E R	Dear Jesus- May we always come to you like a child, simply trusting and receiving your deep love for us. Help us also to share of that same generous love and welcome with others each day. Amen.
